Five-Year Report - 2011-2015

Introduction

All India Christian Council (AICC) initiated helpline for North East people in 2007 with the help of the All India Confederation of SC/ST Organizations, has been tracking the media reports which have spoken about racial attacks on North Eastern people living in metro cities of India, beginning with reports of the gang rape of a Mizo girl at Dhula Kuan in 2005.

The objective of AICC Centre for North East Relations (AICC-CNER) is to serve the North East communities in metro cities and bring their issues and challenges to the notice of the Central Government and the concerned state governments. aicc-CNER reports the facts and conducts studies to meet this objective.

Baseline Studies

AICC has conducted three key baseline studies since 2008.

Study One: In 2008, aicc tracked the media reports on sexual violence in the National Capital Region (NCR). According to reports, 50% of the sexual violence accounted in the first half of the year happened to women from North East India.

Study Two: In 2009, aicc tracked media reports saying that 86% of North East communities living in Delhi and NCR felt they faced racial discrimination. North East communities in Delhi and NCR reported feeling as if they were segregated from broader society. North East women reported feeling accused of polluting mainland communities. Reports claimed social profiling of North East people was the root cause of crimes against them.

Study Three: In 2011, aicc released a study on International Women's Day conducted in 2010 ("North East India Migration and Challenges in Mega Cities of India"). This study was larger than previous studies and examined the deeper issues, challenges and causes of migration of people from North East India to other cities within India. According to the studied reports, a lack of higher educational infrastructure in the North East Indian states was the main factor prompting 10 + 2 passing students toward higher studies outside the North East.

The migration rate increased 12 times from 2005 to 2010, numbering over 414,850, out of which close to 200,000 migrated to Delhi. The North East population in Delhi, according to Delhi police, has risen now to approximately 700,000. It is reported that Bangalore has increased from a population of 50,000 North East in 2012 to 300,000 by 2015. Media and other reports conclude that North East migration is at a peak because as a region the North East people are facing manifold challenges.

In recent years, the challenges facing the North East community are discussed and debated widely, especially after 20-year-old Nido Tania, son of Arunachal Pradesh's Member of Legislative Assembly, Mr. Nido Pavitra, was killed in the Lajpat Nagar area of Delhi on 29 January 2014. The Union Government established the North East Committee under the chairmanship of Shri M.P. Bezbaruah, IAS (Retired), Member of the North East Council. The North East Committee produced a report including a variety of proposals based on suggestions from social activists, scholars and individuals and delivered the report to the Government of India for its action and adoption of plans to prevent crimes against North East communities.

In addition to the North East Committee, the Delhi police created its Nodal Police Officer, along with a team of police personnel representatives from the North East India states, in addition to a special Delhi Police Helpline for North East communities and a special police patrol. Despite these efforts instituted by the Central Government, the actual crime rate against North East communities continues to rise.

Five-Year Report

AICC-CNER has compiled a five-year analysis by tracking crime records and data collected by AICC-CNER, Northeast Solidarity-Bangalore, the Delhi police and the Union Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA). The five-year analysis highlights the reported challenges faced by North East people not only in NCR but as reported in other cities as well. The Union Minister of State for Home Affairs, Kiren Rijiju, presented crimes faced by people in Delhi and other metro cities as higher than that recorded by AICC-CNER. In his report, there were 413 cases registered in Delhi police from 2012 to 2014 and 29 cases in 2015 through February 15.<sup>1</sup>

The number of incidents mentioned in this report includes the ones reported to AICC-CNER, although there is evidence of additional crimes which were not reported to AICC-CNER. Sources revealed that many victims suffer silently, choosing not to file reports which expose their identity resulting in social stigma. Therefore, the data mentioned in this report is not comprehensive, but includes enough data to analyze the issues and develop a proposal encouraging law enforcement agencies implement a plan of action and enforce the law and existing policies.

Reported Racial Profiling

One major issue facing North East people and propagating crimes against them in metro cities across India is racial/social profiling, despite reports of the repeated denial of the seriousness of the issue. The Bezbaruah Committee started by the Central Government to study the problems faced by North East communities living in Delhi and other cities confirmed the racial nature of attacks and discrimination, though noting it is not the cause of all incidents.<sup>2</sup>

Social profiling occurs when opinions are formed about certain communities based on their appearance and the prevailing reputation of their culture. In many cases, once a community is socially profiled, economic, social, educational and professional status is no longer relevant, branding everyone of that society with a degrading image. When asked for their opinion on sexual violence against women in Delhi from a Census Supervisor, respondents replied, “Perpetrators have a different mindset before committing crimes against local women who have parents, brothers and relatives who will come forward to fight for them. They don’t have the same mindset when they want to attack women from outside.”<sup>3</sup>

In aicc’s 2008 report, the research showed that most of the rape and sexual harassment cases in Delhi were perpetrated against women from North East India in the first half of the year. aicc made a strong statement regarding this sexual harassment faced by the North East women in Delhi, stating that if it is not prevented, it would spread to other women in society irrespective of heritage. Rape and molestation cases are on the rise, with Delhi police records reflecting 6522 rape cases and 10,985 molestation cases in Delhi from 2008 to 2014.<sup>4</sup>

In aicc’s 2009 study, 86% of North East communities living in Delhi reported being victims of racial profiling. The study also revealed that crimes faced by North East India communities in NCR began to shift from targeting women for sexual harassment to racial attack and discrimination against all North East peoples.

Table 1 shows that 30% of the 195 incidents against North East communities recorded by AICC-CNER were crimes related to sexual assault (rape, molestation and sexual abuse) and included two gang rape cases (2005, 2010) and the rape and murder of a seven-year-old girl.

70% of the incidents were racial attacks and discrimination (physical attacks, theft, trafficking and murder). This indicates the paradigm shift from sexual harassment of women to racial attack and discrimination of the whole North East community. The number of racial attacks and incidents of discrimination has increased in the last five years, which is commensurate with the increased number of people migrating from North East India in the same time period.

Identifying the Cities

Historically, Delhi has been reported to be the most preferred city for North East people to migrate. The educational infrastructure has been the main motivating factor for North East Students migration: Delhi has at least 82 colleges affiliated to Delhi University, as well as other universities (i.e., Jawaharlal Nehru University, Indira Gandhi Open University and Jamia Millia Islamia University).<sup>5</sup> Delhi also has 7,509 private sector companies<sup>6</sup>, as well as central job opportunities which attract semi-skilled youngsters from the North East.

The migration rate to NCR and other cities has increased in the last five years. In 2010, the North East population in Delhi was 200,000, and in 2015 it has increased to 700,000.<sup>7</sup> The Bezbaruah Committee's report suggests an approximate population of 1,100,000 North East people living across India. A full 300,000 are reported living in Bangalore.<sup>8</sup> Tracked incident data suggests the higher the North East population, the higher the crime record.

Table 2 presents the classification of crimes faced by North East communities in metro cities, which includes a compilation of the data collected by AICC-CNER, the Delhi Police and the Ministry of Home Affairs. Note: The number of the incidents reflected in Table 2 can be multiple and will not sum to 100%. In all cases, Delhi shows the highest crime rate followed by Bangalore.

Table 2 shows that 54% of the crimes against North East communities happened in Delhi and NCR, and 42% occurred in Bangalore, while a mere 4% were reported in other cities like Mumbai, Hyderabad, Pune and West Bengal. According to these crime records, AICC-CNER concludes that Delhi and NCR are unsafe for North East migrants, followed by Bangalore. Data maintained by AICC-CNER in Table 2 is from 2005 till 2015, whereas data on Bangalore is the record of incidents during a time of heavy North East migration in 2012. The MHA's record also indicates that Delhi has a 94% crime rate against North East communities followed by Bangalore with 6%.

City-Based Categorized Crimes

Crimes<sup>9</sup> committed against North East people in NCR and in Bangalore are different in nature. Table 3 shows the reported differences. 88% of all the sexual harassment incidents against North East women across India happened in Delhi/NCR, while Bangalore records 7% of the cases, and the remaining 5% in other cities. This shows that North East people migrating to Delhi are facing criminal acts and may feel it is unsafe for them to migrate despite their need to find education and jobs. Table 3 also indicates physical attacks and racial discrimination are the main issues in Bangalore.

Further analysis of the statistics reveals racially-based attacks are more prevalent in NCR, while racial discrimination is a main issue in Bangalore. This racial discrimination takes the form of denial of rental homes, refusal of rental security deposits, and refusal of college admission. Victims of attack/discrimination in Bangalore were reported to be unskilled labor migrants (i.e., security guards, industry laborers), mostly from Assam. The North East migrants in NCR are semi-skilled laborers, who work in BPO industries. Both the unskilled and semi-skilled laborers in Bangalore and in Delhi report an equal amount of harassment from employers in the form of non-payment of wages.

Train journeys during migration also are reported to pose significant threat to North East communities. While the majority of students studying outside North East travel by air to their destinations, people migrating in search of jobs in both the private sectors and in labor industries travel by rail. AICC-CNER received reports of North East men being harassed on trains (i.e., pushed off moving trains, murdered, abducted). Young women were reportedly molested and raped. The routes with the highest rate of reported incidence was Guwahati to Delhi, and Guwahati to Bangalore/Hyderabad via Howrah. A 28-year-old woman from Manipur, who claims to have a doctorate degree, was allegedly dragged out of a Secunderabad-bound train at the Palasa station in Andhra Pradesh and gang-raped by unknown miscreants.<sup>10</sup>

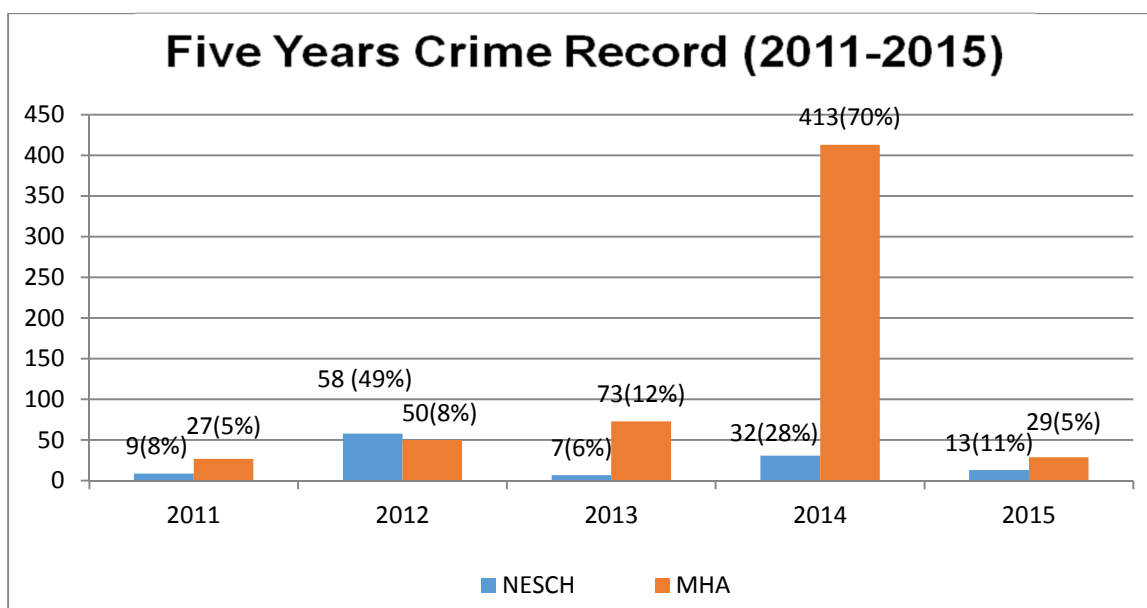

AICC-CNER is developing a plan and recommendation for law enforcement officials that will address the safety of North East people when they are travelling by train.

Trends within Racial Attacks

Since 2011, the number of crimes reported against North East communities via MHA records has seen a consistent increase. Table 4 records the crimes reported against North East people comparing those reported by AICC-CNER and those reported by the MHA. 2014 saw a marked increase in reported crimes by the MHA.

In 2014, the Central Government put serious emphasis on the challenges of migrating North East communities. A heavy level of news reports highlighted the issues, but few, if any, solutions have been implemented.

Twenty-year-old Nindo Tania, son of Nindo Pavitra, Congress MLA from Arunachal Pradesh, was murdered on 29 January 2014, in the Lajpat Nagar area of Delhi. This incident was widely reported in the media and grabbed the nation's attention. North East India state governments adopted the slogan, "Enough is Enough." The Central Government was compelled to establish the Bezbaruah Committee on 5 February 2014, and the Union Ministry of Home Affairs concurrently established the Delhi Police North East Nodal Cell led by Mr. Robin Hibul with a team of police representatives from eight North East state police departments. Even with these efforts, the crimes nationally against North East people rose to their highest reported level in ten years. The safety of North East communities remains a matter of great concern and one which law enforcement agencies, in cooperation with the Central and State governments must examine and address.

Note: Table 4 data for 2015 is as of 3 August 2015 and was collected from a questionnaire presented by Union State Minister of Home Affairs in the Parliament on 3 March 2015.<sup>11</sup>

Beyond Bezbaruah Committee Recommendations

<sup>11</sup> <http://mattersindia.com/2015/03/04/crimes-against-northeast-people-on-rise/> (Accessed on 4 July 2015).

The Bezbaruah Committee's report indicates a lack of resources to address the challenges faced by the people from North East India.

The Bezbaruah Committee recommended legal measures, the strengthening of law enforcement agencies, setting up of the special North East police cell, and emphasizing the important role of the private sectors. The committee recommended setting up a fast tract legal system in Delhi, with quickened justice plus sentences with serious punishment for culprits. Any judgment pronounced by any court with regard to racial attacks and discrimination will be beneficial nationwide.

The Bezbaruah Committee's study was conducted within Delhi and outside, and gathered facts, figures, opinions and suggestions.

Recommendations Should Apply to Other Metro Cities

Recalling the data in Table 3, 62% of physical attacks and incidents of racial discrimination against North East communities happened in Bangalore and other cities. The Bezbaruah Committee's recommendations lack a recommendation to the Central government to establish in other states nationwide a similar Police Nodal Office with Police representatives from the eight North East states, like the one set up in Delhi.

Bangalore has been identified as a metro city of concern for North East communities, therefore setting up a special police task force is a crucial need. We recommend that the Central government brings the issue to the concerned state governments.

Racial discrimination faced by North East communities living in Bangalore is mostly in unorganized private sectors, where no regulations for recruiting and employment are applied. The Bezbaruah Committee's recommendation of the role to be played by the organized private sectors does not address the issues of the non-organized private sectors. The organized private sectors have regulations for recruiting and employment and the Bezbaruah Committee's recommendation will suit those sectors. However, the North East migrants working in the non-organized private sectors suffer racial discrimination in many forms such as suspension without notification and non-payment of wages.

Universities' Role

The Bezbaruah Committee has recommended that universities in Delhi include studies and courses on North East India. Some universities like Indira Gandhi Open University and Delhi University do indeed have a North East Studies branch, while others have opened their own similar branches after the Committee's recommendation. Jawaharlal Nehru University and Jamia Millia Islami University are two such places.

There is a need for universities in other states where an increasing North East population exists to establish North East study branches. Bangalore and Hyderabad are considered top priorities for these new branches as these two metro cities are becoming preferred destinations for the North East student community.

Need for North East Police Nodal Officers

The Delhi Police issued a standing order (No. 383/2014) on 14 February 2014, noting the issues and challenges faced by Indian citizens hailing from North East India who are living in metro cities for education and employment. The standing order adopts a Zero Tolerance Policy with regard to racial attacks and discrimination and establishes a Delhi Police Nodal Office for North East India. Under the leadership of Robin Hibul, the IPS Office has created a special task force comprised of police representatives from the North East Indian states. They are addressing the challenges faced by North East communities in Delhi and NCR, though the crimes against them increase every year.

The MHA must consider the possibility of setting up such police nodal offices in the cities where the crimes against North East communities are recorded. Bangalore, Hyderabad, Mumbai and Pune are of highest priority.

On being called up by her brother about the raid, Prof. Temsen tried talking to Security Officer Mr. T. V. Rao, who headed the raid. Mr. Rao told her that they were given an order for the raid on the basis of some reported illegal activities in the house. When Prof. Temsen asked him what kind of “illegal activities”, he hung up the phone on her and later flatly refused to talk or even listen to what she was trying to say. After this, Prof. Temsen called up the Deputy Registrar (Estate), Mr. Challa Venkateshwar, who did not sound a wee bit surprised when she talked with him, and in fact he shouted at her and accused her of “illegal things” without even trying to reason things with her.
